DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to communication filed on 1/31/2006.
2. Claims 1-2, 4, 7, 9-11 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-2, 4, 7 and 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldhaber et al. (5,855,008 hereinafter Goldhaber).

With reference to claims 1-2, 4, 7 and 9-10 Goldhaber teaches a presentation method for providing advertisement information stored in a server to an exhibit via a network (Abstract). Requesting access to information stored in the server over the network (col. 9, lines 33-61 and col. 10, lines 9-38); selecting advertisement information among information stored in the server when access is authorized (col. 9, lines 33-61 and col. 10, lines 9-38); sending selected advertisement information from the server to the exhibitor over the network (col. 9, lines 33-67); wherein the selected advertisement information is a questionnaire is communicated over the network from the audience to the server (col. 16, lines 16-23); wherein personal information of the audience is registered and the personal information associated with the response is transferred to the server (col. 16, lines 49 to col. 18, lines 1-35).

Goldhaber does not expressly show that the advertisement information sent to the exhibitor is transmitted to a movie theater and shown to the audience before or after a feature presentation as a digital motion picture projected from a movie projector.

However these differences are only found in the nonfunctional descriptive material and are not functionally involved in the steps recited. The advertisement information sent to the exhibitor is transmitted to a movie theater and shown to the audience before or after a feature presentation as a digital motion picture projected from a movie projector. Thus, this descriptive material will not distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art in terms of patentability, see In re Gulack, 703 F.2d 1381, 1385, 217 USPQ 401, 404 (Fed. Cir. 1983); In re Lowry, 32 F.3d 1579, 32 USPQ2d 1031 (Fed. Cir. 1994).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made for the advertisement information sent to the exhibitor is transmitted to a movie theater and shown to the audience before or after a feature presentation as a digital motion picture projected from a movie projector because such data does not functionally relate to the steps in the method claimed and because the subjective interpretation of the data does not patentably distinguish the claimed invention.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant argues that "advertisement information" is functionally involved in the recited steps. The Examiner wants to point that the non-functional material is not the "advertisement information" but the use of a "movie theater for presentation of a picture projected from a movie projector" being used for transmission and showing of the movie. The Examiner wants to point out that the "transmitted" and "shown" steps would be performed the same regardless if is shown in a movie projector or not.

5. With respect to Applicant's argument that Goldhaber does not disclose that the advertisement information sent to the exhibitor is transmitted to a movie theater and shown to the audience before or after, since the particular data as recited has been determined to be nonfunctional descriptive material, it does not need to be taught by the prior art. Nonfunctional descriptive material cannot render nonobvious an invention that would have otherwise been obvious. In re Gulack, 703 F.2d 1381, 1385, 217 USPQ 401, 404 (Fed. Cir. 1983) (when descriptive material is not functionally related to the substrate, the descriptive material will not distinguish the invention from the prior art in terms of patentability).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
